Eagleville Hospital has established a Charitable Planned Giving Platform. An attractive option is to offer Planned Gifts using life insurance.

A life insurance gift is:

- ☞ immediate and easy
- ☞ private and economical
- ☞ flexible

The methods of giving life insurance described below can help you meet different estate or financial planning goals.

Purchase a Life Insurance Policy and name Eagleville Hospital as the owner and beneficiary:

- ☞ Purchase a policy on yourself, or
- ☞ Purchase a policy on the joint lives of you and your spouse.
- ☞ If you are uninsurable, purchase a policy on a family member who is insurable.

Make a lump sum gift to Eagleville Hospital of cash or appreciated securities. Eagleville will purchase a single premium policy on your life, on the joint lives of you and your spouse, or on the life of an insurable family member.

Make annual gifts to Eagleville Hospital of cash or appreciated securities. Eagleville will purchase a policy on your life, on the joint lives of you and your spouse, or on the life of an insurable family member and use the annual gifts to pay the premium.

Transfer the ownership of an existing policy to Eagleville Hospital:

- ⌘ You can continue to pay the premiums; or
- ⌘ You can make annual gifts to Eagleville equal to the amount of the premium.
- ⌘ If the policy is a non-term policy, Eagleville can convert the policy to a paid up policy; or
- ⌘ If the policy is a term policy, Eagleville can convert the policy to a different type of policy.

Maintain ownership of an existing policy but designate Eagleville Hospital as the beneficiary in one of the following ways:

- ⌘ Name Eagleville as the primary beneficiary of all of the policy proceeds; or
- ⌘ Name Eagleville as the primary beneficiary of a percentage of the policy proceeds; or
- ⌘ Name Eagleville as a secondary beneficiary.

Planned Giving and life insurance have gone hand-in-hand for many years. Life insurance can be a wonderful way to carry out your charitable intentions.
